PHILIPPINE QUESTION NEXT WEEK.

The Administration Believes That the Negotiations Will Be Concluded Sooner Than Expected.

Spaniards Have Discovered That t merican Commissioners Mean What They Say and the Uselessness of Prolonged Debate.

Washington, Oct. 20.—The president was enabled to lay before the cabinet Friday very encouraging reports from Paris regarding the progress of the peace negotiations. The administration now fully believes that the negotiations will be concluded much sooner than was expected from the outlook a few days ago. It can be stated authorisatively that the commissioners have not yet actually begun the discussion of the Philippine question, and further that it will only be a superior of the properties of the side of the United States is in reality as utilinatum, the useless-

The recent action of the United States government in intimating that the negotiations were proceeding much too slowly has had its effect upon the Spanish commissioners, and they are not like to to make the second of the total commissioners and they are not like to to the second of the second of the commissioners and they are not like to to the second of the commissioners and the second of the commissioners are not all the settlement of the Cuban debt.

The United States has not assumed nor guaranteed the so-called municipal debt of Cuba or Cuban municipalities, but it is expected that such debts will be paid by municipalities incurring them, for by no reasoning could they be charged upon Spain. Our government, it is said, in official circles, would look upon any attempt at evading the payments of such debts as repudiation and dishonest, and whatever government its established in Cuba will be expected to see that these obligations are carried out in good faith. Moreover, some of the bonds of Cuban municipalities are held by citizens of the United States might insist that the investments of her citizens in such securities are made good. The state department has no information as to the amount of these municipal liabilities.

Upon the conclusion of the ecremotes the great audience hurried to positions from which to see the monster of view procession. A stand covering the sidewalk the entire length of the front of the historical hall had been erected for occupancy during the parade by the 5,000 school children, who had participated in the dedication exercises. The mammont trades display, or what was popularly known as the civil parade, started from Broad and Cumberland streets promptly at 11 o'clock, headed by Maj. Gen. George, R. Snöwden and staff of 80 mounted aldes.

The parade was one of the greatest in the history of the country. It was divided into ten divisions and it is estimated that there were $0.000 men in line besides at least 150 floats representing in miniature almost every manufacturing luterest and trade. There were 110 bands of music in line.
